ROYAL
BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvelous purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 Wall street, N. Y.

TUTT'S PILLS
TORPID BOWELS,
DISORDERED LIVER,
and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels constive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine, TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed instantly to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

No Nonsense about Him.

There is no nonsense about the tiger, as there is about the lion. He does not go about imposing on poets. Wolves may, if they like, pretend that they are only dogs gone wrong from want of a better bringing up, and the lion swaggers as if he were something more than a very large cat; but the tiger never descends to such prevarication, setting himself up for better than he is, or claiming respect for qualities which he knows he does not possess. There is no ambiguity about anything he does. All his character is on the surface. "I am," he says, "a thoroughgoing wild beast, and if you don't like me you must lump me; but in the meanwhile you had better get out of my way." There is no pompous affectation of superior "intelligence" about tigers. If they are met with in jungles they do not make-believe for the purpose of impressing the traveler with their uncommon magnanimity, or waste time like the lion in superfluous roarings, shaking of heads, or "looking kingly." On the contrary, they behave honestly and candidly, like the wild beasts they are. They either retire precipitately with every confession of alarm, or in their own fine outspoken way "go for the stranger." Nor when they make off do they do it as if they liked it or had any half mind about it—as the lion, that Livingston tells us trots away slowly till it thinks itself out of sight and then bounds off like a greyhound—waiting for the protection of attitudes or trying to make-believe that it is not afraid.

But if, on the other hand, they mean fighting they give the stranger very little leisure for misunderstanding their intentions. The tiger, therefore, deserves to be held in respect as a model wild beast, for he knows his station, and keeps it, doing the work that nature has given him to do with all his might. Life has only one end for him, the enjoyment of it, and to this he gives the whole of his magnificent energies. Endowed with superb capabilities for taking lives and preserving his own, he exercises them to the utmost in this direction, without ever forgetting for an instant that he is only a huge cat, or flying in the face of Providence by wishing to be thought anything else.

He Forgot His Name.

A certain young Hebrew traveling man, now on the road, but with an older companion, bought a special ticket of a scalper and got aboard the train in good shape. When the conductor came around he took up Isaac's ticket and look at the name, and then at Isaac, shook his head and said:

"What's your name?"

"Let me see my ticket."

"Can't you tell your name without seeing the ticket? This won't do. You'll have to get off at the next station or pay your fare."

This agitated Isaac profoundly, and he turned to his companion and said:

"Moses, I've forgot my name that was on the ticket; can you tell me what it is?"

"Vill you leef me see dot teeket, Mr. Coondogter?" showed it to him. "Mein Gott, Izeek, what name is dis? Patrick Moriarty! No vonder you dord recommender dot name! Dond you nefer got some more teekets pi dem schoolers mit dot name on it. Dey vill all de times gif you afay. Dem coondogter looks at dot nose and den at dot name, und he schmile mit himself ven he dinks of a Patrick behind a nose like dot. Oh, Iseek, ven you grows older you vill know a krate deal more as you knows yooost now. Mr. Coondogter, I will pay disgoslink's fare to de stehopping place vere he gets off.

Reason Enough.

"Back, I say!"

The silvered foam of the sea was splashing in rhythmic cadences on the white sand of the beach, while here and there a fleck of wavering light from the signal buoy on Sardine shoals—that dreaded spot beneath whose treacherous waves so many goodly ships freighted with precious burdens from far Cathay and Muskegon had disappeared forever—brought into bold relief against the Western sky Giosse McClosky's off foot as she stood by Bertram Perkin's side that soft June evening.

"You do not love me," said the girl, speaking slowly, "or you could not speak so cruelly. On this beautiful night, when the hills are suffused with amber haze, through which the stars glow and throb in silent splendor, we should think of naught but love—pure, passionless love, that will bind our hearts together in a chain whose every link shall be a kiss, whose every fold a sweet caress."

For an instant the man did not reply. Then the girl stretched forth to him her bare white arms that glistened like marble in the moonlight, and he looked at them with a look of awe and wonder.

ly and with pitiful eloquence for the joy that was never to be. Looking at her with a haughty, almost Vice-President Davis expression on his face, Bertram again said:

"Back, I say!"

With a despairing gleam in her handsome eyes Giosse turned away and began to sob as if her corset would break. "God help me," she said in despairing accents, "I cannot back."

"Why not?" asked Bertram.

"Because," she replied in tear-stained tones, "my polonaise is too eternally tight."—Chicago Tribune.

Useful on Certain Occasions.

A good story is told by a gentleman just returned from Gunnison. He says he was standing on the corner of Main street and Virginia avenue, and heard the following conversation between two ladies who were watching with considerable interest a third lady who wore one of the newly adopted freaks of fashion, a Mother Hubbard dress:

"And so that is one of the new style of dress is it?" said one of the two ladies.

"Yes," replied her companion, "how do you like it?"

"It's not handsome," said No. 1; "did you say that woman was married?"

"Oh no; she is one of the belles of Gunnison."

"Well," said the other, musingly, "if I was a single woman, I should hate to be seen on the street with one of those things on; and even now I shouldn't want to wear one only at certain times. They are liable to create a false impression!"

The gentleman is not wholly decided in his mind what the lady really did mean.

Strayed Away.

The young man with two watch chains across his vest boarded a Woodward avenue car at eleven o'clock yesterday forenoon. Among the other passengers was an old woman who had been inquiring about the Bay City train at the crossing. She looked across at the young man with great interest for a minute or two and then said:

"Your time must be very valuable, young man."

He bowed and mumbled something which she could not catch, and leaning forward she asked:

"I s'pose one o' them watches is for when you go down, and the other is for when you come up, eh?"

He shifted around to look out of the window, and seeming somewhat vexed at his want of courtesy, she continued:

"Seems to me, it would be cheaper to hitch an eight day clock to your shirt bosom."

He didn't reply to that either, and tapping him on the knee with the handle of her umbrella she inquired:

"Young man, I want to catch the Bay City train."

"Yes'm."

"What time is it by all of your watch chains?"

"I—I—about 11!" he stammered.

"You didn't look, Come, now, here's an old bull's eye that has been in the family forty-eight years and never had an inch of brass chain hitched to it. I'll bet it shows the right time nearer than anything you've got."

She hauled out a watch almost as large as a saucer and rattled it around and waved it about, and as he slid along the seat toward the door she continued:

"If I had my chains run down and hitched to your best vest, any young man as will go and begin hitching 'em up and down his vest with 'em, at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon, Am—" away from some 25-cent store and wants to be identified and returned. Have you got baked 'taters hitched to the pocket ends? Say—"

But he dropped off and fell down and got up and got away before she could further abuse him.—Free Press.

New Foundry Enterprise.

The Pacific Iron works, Rankin, Brayton & Co., of San Francisco, have recently concluded an arrangement with Messrs. Carlisle, Mason, & Co., of the Excelsior Iron Works, of this city, for the construction of mining, milling and smelting machinery. The Pacific Iron Works have been in successful operation for more than 30 years, and have contributed perhaps more than any other to the many improvements in the manipulation of ores, which has made mining one of the great industries of the times. A large experience and a thorough practical knowledge of the treatment of ores, and the adaptation of machinery for this purpose, had made the Pacific Iron Works the foremost establishment of the kind in the country.

The works of Messrs. Mason & Co., are one of the pioneer establishments of Chicago, and the firm has long been recognized as one of the most successful and reliable in this part of the country, and give assurance that the same high standard of work will be maintained that has made the Pacific Iron Works so famous.

The combination referred to will attract much interest among mining men in all parts of the country, and afford an opportunity for Eastern purchasers to secure on this side of the continent all the improved appliances relating to mining machinery that has been developed on the Pacific coast during the past 30 years.

Th office of the Chicago branch of the Pacific Iron Works is located at 100 North Clinton St. and is in charge of Mr. Willis G. Duddy, a man of large practical experience in this line of work.

The New York office is located at 35 Broadway, and is in charge of J. B. Murray.—Chicago Mining Review.

How To Secure Health.

It seems strange that there will be from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER STRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all nervous disorders and Debility. It cures complaints and all Diseases indicative of an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health restorer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exanthematic nature, having tendency to less than the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.
